

INVESTIGATE DEATH OF THREE BY POISON

Autopsies were performed in Weymouth today in an effort to solve the mystery of the sudden deaths of three State children, who are thought to have been poisoned while playing on a public dump.

The victims were Peter Anthony and Caroline Krugas, aged three, five and six. They were in charge of Miss Nora O'Hara of Oak street, who is highly respected in Weymouth and known for her kindness to children.

While the autopsies were being performed by Medical Examiner William H. Kehler, the police were searching the public dump and searching for the supposed poison or some clue to it.

DUMP GUARDED.

Sergeant Mulken and two patrolmen went to the dump early today. They will keep the neighborhood children away from the place until the boys and girls have learned that they must not play there. They began a careful search for old bottles.

For boxes of liquid or pills, which might explain the fatal illness of the three children.

It was reported at first that the children were poisoned by shavings or pieces of wood, but investigation today indicated otherwise. The children were searching on the dump for bottles and were given some nuts from a bag that had been ordered for the Thanksgiving Day festivities. There were seven in Miss O'Hara's household and all ate of the nuts.

The three children died, but none of the others was even ill, so some other agent, than the nuts, is suspected.

The three children sat on the front steps cracked the nuts and ate them. At 2 o'clock Peter came in crying and sick. Anthony followed him. Caroline was stricken later. Peter died at 10 o'clock. Anthony and Caroline lingered until 6 o'clock.

The symptoms of the sickness and the manner of death did not indicate immediate poison, so the belief grew that the children found something poisonous on the dump.

MOTHERS ALARMED.

Peter died in Miss O'Hara's house but Anthony and Caroline died in the County Hospital. The bodies were taken to R. J. McLaughlin's undertaking room. Medical Examiner Kehler was assisted at the autopsies by Dr. Charles O'Brien of Weymouth and Dr. C. F. McCarthy of Weymouth.

When the report was spread that the Krugas children had found poison on the public dump the mothers of other children in the neighborhood became alarmed. Close observation was made to see if any illness was developing in the other little ones. Up to this point no additional cases had been reported.

There was talk of prosecution, if the police could find any person who has thrown any containers of poison on the dump.

The three Krugas children were Russian. They were placed in Miss O'Hara's custody a few months ago by the Department of Juvenile Affairs of the State Board of Charity.

CROKER, EX-TAMMANY CHIEFTAIN, AND INDIAN MAID NOW HIS BRIDE

Picture of Richard Croker and his Indian princess bride special- ly posed for the AMERICAN. He is seventy-three and she is twenty-three. Photograph copyrighted by the International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—It is the dearest wish of every Indian girl to win a chief, and I have won the chief of men," declared Prince Sequoyah, descendant of Chief Red Jacket of the Cherokee, following the ceremony which made her the bride of Richard Croker, former chieftain of Tammany Hall.

Heath Burton Edmondson, as her English maiden name ran, is well known in Boston, where she studied music and elocution.

Mr. Croker first saw her in Kansas City, when she was nine years old. He later became interested in her and made her people better understood. Miss Edmondson took inspiration for her work from Pocahontas.

"I have been inspired by the example of Pocahontas, who did 'so much to make the English people understand our race,'" she said. "Then there was Sacagawea, the bird woman, who piloted the Lewis and Clark expedition 5,000 miles and made it a success. On the way back in crossing the Missouri, her husband, a renegade Frenchman, kept her from carrying the rest of the expedition."

She died again and again until she saved all the valuable papers and trophies. I also find inspiration in Tatiana, the Cherokee maiden who helped Sam Houston to free Texas."

Today the bride of twenty-three is the mother of seven children. She is on her way to the Croker estate near Boston, where she will live for the remainder of her life.

In April the couple will go to the groom's home in Ireland, where he has lived for many years, since retiring from political life in New York.

Mr. Croker and Miss Edmondson have interesting details of their life history to P. J. Scully, the marriage clerk. It developed that he has a middle name, Valetudine. None of his intimate friends remember seeing it in print before.

GET JOBS AT $15 PER WEEK GO A-BEGGING

Commissioner Bourke of the public works department has spent two weeks trying to hire six ditch diggers willing to work for $15 a week, on an eight-hour day and Saturday half-holiday basis, but to two short of his long-sought-for half dozen laborers today.

It has taken just five separate regulations on the civil-service commissioners to secure even these four laborers in the meantime.

Aside from the fact that several "regular" extra's in his own department have been asked to resign as a result of these regulations, the commissioner's experience has been unusually perplexing.

The remainder of the thirty-three laborers from the civil service list, while perfectly willing to dig down a six-week allowance, either were too high-minded to dig ditches or too under-estimated to perform the work required of them.

Any able-bodied man who is a citizen of the United States, provided he has been a resident of the State for one year and of the city for six months, is eligible for the State for $15 a week.

And what is equally important, the ditch-digging job in question does not call for eight hours' consecutive work, but merely to dig ditches for house-construction and similar work, which permits of numerous rest periods between actual digging periods.

All of which has left Commissioner Bourke somewhat at a loss as to how to get the job done.

When the city itself can't get ditch-diggers for ditches can't possibly be so bad as some people would have one believe.

Pastor Compares South Boston and College Betting

The other day the police arrested some fifty South Boston men caught doing some petty gambling in a poolroom on Broadway. Two days before, Yale and Harvard had played a great game of football in New Haven.

The amount of illegal gambling consequent upon it, if reports are true, was incomparably greater and more reprehensible than that carried on in the South Boston poolroom. Yet neither police nor university presidents made the least sign of protest.

She said that she once lived on Huntington avenue, but for some time had been living in Providence, and that one of her best friends in Boston was Mrs. Mabel Herrick of No. 20 Sackett street.

SHE DARKENED HER GRAY HAIR

A Kansas City Lady Darkened Her Gray Hair and Stimulated Its Growth by a Simple Home Process.

She Tells How She Did It. A well-known resident of Kansas City, Mo., who darkened her gray hair by a simple home process, made the following statement: "Any lady of gentleman can darken her hair by a simple home process. I have used this process for years and it has made my hair grow and make it soft, glossy with its simple recipe, which they can mix at home. To half-pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, 1 small box of Barbo Compound and 1 oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at a very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently, then every two weeks. This mixture relieves scalp troubles and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair. It does not stain the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not run off. It will make a gray haired person look 10 to 20 years younger."

DOSE OF POISON BRINGS HARVARD MAN NEAR DEATH

Edward J. Hyett, a Harvard sophomore, is recovering today after taking an overdose of a strychnine solution by accident. It was three-quarters of an hour before his condition was discovered and during that period he writhed in convulsions in the corridor of Wald Hall, where he has his room. Hyett got out of bed to take medicine and, in his hurry, took a much heavier dose than the prescription called for. He left the room for a moment, and it was while he was returning that he became unconscious and fell.

Dr. H. J. Cronin found the bottle, which contained strychnine, and by hard work succeeded in saving Hyett. Hyett, who is identified with the prominent Western family, came to Harvard this fall, after a year spent in the University of Michigan. During the last year he had been in good physical condition and has been taking the medicine.

The Misses' and Girls' Shops

present an unique example of gift specialization

Here is an entire floor filled with things which any girl between the ages of six and eighteen years would be glad to receive as Christmas gifts. No hesitation here—no wasting time on unsuitable articles—one might almost pick things here blindfolded, for all of these "younger set" gifts were selected by experts who know what girls like.

The arrangement of the floor, too, is ideal for gift selection. The merchandise is classified, each in its shop; and each shop has its shop window. Passing from shop window to shop window, unimpeded and at leisure, one's Christmas list can be made up with ease and satisfaction.

“That’s not a pistol,” Judge Calhoun remarked. “That’s a cannon. You can’t pay $10 a day to lug that thing around. I wonder that you don’t get a truck to haul it for you.”

Hughes said he rested the gun on a fence rail and used both hands to pull back on the trigger.

“You ought to be able to do this kind of hard work,” said Judge Calhoun. “I’ve been months or less.”

Bliss MacKay, the pretty English actress appearing as leading lady with Cyril Maude in "Vivian" at the Plymouth Theatre, is making a contribution to the AMERICAN "Give-a-Basket" fund. Miss MacKay, who is a naturalist in art and beauty, is one of the most beautiful actresses on the English speaking stage in America. The open-hearted generosity of the American people is more than I can find words to express," says Miss MacKay. "I have always read with genuine joy how the people from the States are forever responsive in all cases. The work that is being done by the American people in relieving the suffering in the European war will mark a chapter in the history of the world's greatest effort."

"I am so happy to be able to contribute to help the food in your splendid idea I want to share the satisfaction and enthusiasm that I possess extended by all Americans. I do hope that I may be of some assistance during my stay in your great, good and hospitable city."

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. These pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who use them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and getting rid of the entire system.

They do it in such a way that the dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without any of the dangerous, disagreeable effects of any kind.

Dr. J. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

IN NEXT WEEK'S BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

WILSON VISITS THE 'HAYSTACK' MONUMENT

WILLIAMSTOWN, Nov. 27.—President Wilson spent his last day as the guest of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. Sayre by paying a visit this morning to the spot where the first American foreign mission was planned. The place is marked by a shaft known as the "Haystack Monument," bearing upon its steps a granite globe showing the continents in relief. On the side of the shaft is carved in relief the figure of a haystack set upon a four-sided base.

The story of the beginning of the mission in America to this is that three men were driven by a thunder storm to find shelter beneath a stack of hay near the college. When they were held there by the rain they reached their first agreement upon a plan to carry the Gospel of Asia and Africa.

President Wilson was much interested in the story told him by his son-in-law, who accompanied him on his eight-day trip. The President will leave the return journey to Washington at 4 o'clock this afternoon. His car will be taken to Springfield and New Haven, there to be attached to a through train, which will run to the capital by way of Housatonic.

The President today also called on Dr. Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams College, after which he spent several hours at work on his correspondence.

SUBSCRIPTIONS EXCEED BIG BRITISH LOAN

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The Chancellor Lloyd George in a speech in the House of Commons this afternoon declared that England had rallied from the financial depression caused by the war and that conditions were now of the very best. In evidence of his statement the Chancellor pointed out that the war loan of £1,250,000,000 had been over-subscribed. The early depression in England was attributed by Mr. Lloyd George to the fact that the whole world owed England money, but this country could not get it.

Among the large debtors of England he said was the United States. After stating that the war loan had been over-subscribed the Chancellor declared that the applicants numbered more than twelve million, but he gave no figure as to the amount of over-subscription.

The position of Great Britain in international commerce is unique, said Mr. Lloyd George. "It stands without parallel. The financial deadlock at the beginning of the war was not caused by lack of national credit but by the failure to receive remittances from abroad."

For the moment we could neither buy nor sell. The whole world owed us money, the United States alone owing us $5,000,000,000, but we could not transact any business.

The transactions of the Bank of England in this critical time have been enormous. In spite of the prevailing conditions, however, there has been only one serious complaint. The Chancellor declared that British business and commerce had been saved by the Bill of Operations passed by Parliament to assist the empire's finances.

He added that the currency notes outstanding now amount to £168,400,000.

BELIEVE GERMAN SUBMARINE SUNK BRITISH BATTLESHIP IN THE THAMES

MORE THAN 700 MEN PERISH IN DISASTER

off which the Bulwark was lost. Only fourteen survivors have been accounted for in the official reports. The regular complement of the vessel was 730 men. At least 725 men perished, among them the Bulwark's chief officers, Captain Guy L. Scaler, commander, A. M. H. Phillips and Lieutenant-Commanders Penrose and Queripel.

Of the fourteen survivors picked up soon after the Bulwark had disappeared, only three were able to speak today, and it was expected that the inquiry would have to be postponed. The terrible force of the explosion that smashed the vessel paralyzed the mental senses of the few survivors and even the three who retained the power of speech were hardly able to go before the naval board of inquiry for extended questioning.

Most of the other eleven men were in a serious condition and dispatches from Sheerness said that several of them probably will die.

Scores of the bodies washed ashore today at Sheerness were beyond identification because of the mutilations caused by the explosion. Many bodies were blown to atoms and only fragments remain ashore. Seven hundred and fifty coffins were shipped to Sheerness on orders from the admiralty today, and as fast as the bodies or fragments of bodies were picked up they were placed in caskets.

BELIEVE SHIP WAS TORPEDOED.

Among the few persons in London who are privately informed, notwithstanding the silence of the severely censored press, it is believed that the Bulwark was torpedoed by one of the same sort of German submarines that blew up the Audacious off the coast of Ireland.

The report that the disaster was caused by a spy may be explained as follows: No spy serving as a member of the Bulwark's crew could possibly have exploded her magazines. That erroneous report was doubtless caused by the general misapprehension as to how the German spy system has been operated. That signal were in some mysterious manner communicated to the commander of the German submarine squadron as to the whereabouts of the Audacious is no longer questioned. When that ill-fated battleship emerged from Lough Swilly for a morning's target practice a German submarine had been detached to intercept and destroy

"WHITTLE DOWN BRITISH NAVY," SAID VON BERNHARDI IT IS BEING DONE!

"SUCH possibility of superiority on the sea must be carefully watched for, and nothing must be neglected which could injure the enemy. THIS IS THE ONLY WAY IN WHICH WE MAY HOPE SO TO WEAKEN OUR PROUD OPPONENT that we may in the end challenge him to a decisive engagement on the water."

BRITISH WARSHIPS SUNK BY GERMANS:

Ship	Tonnage	Type	Location	Date
Audacious	12,200	Arm'd cruiser	off Ireland	Sept. 1
Arcturion	12,200	Arm'd cruiser	off Ireland	Sept. 1
Oceanic	17,000	Arm'd cruiser	off Ireland	Sept. 1
Warrior	15,700	Arm'd cruiser	off Ireland	Sept. 1
Blenclyffe	5,400	Arm'd cruiser	off Ireland	Sept. 1
Monmouth	8,900	Arm'd cruiser	off Ireland	Sept. 1
Good Hope	14,100	Arm'd cruiser	off Ireland	Sept. 1
Howe	6,500	Arm'd cruiser	off Ireland	Sept. 1

her. It is believed that one of the same mysterious squadron, on information signalled from the German submarine, was ordered to attack the Bulwark.

The British government made no official statement of the Audacious disaster. Thus, the British government's policy was that any reverse to the fleet must be kept secret. The British government's policy was that any reverse to the fleet must be kept secret. The British government's policy was that any reverse to the fleet must be kept secret.

GERMAN NAVAL SPIES ACTIVE.

It is objected that, if a German submarine, instead of a British battleship, had been sunk, the news would inevitably have come out through Berlin, as was the case when the L2 torpedoed three British cruisers in the North Sea. News so encouraging to Germany, it is agreed, would not have been held secret. Therefore, the disaster must have been caused by a mine.

But this theory appears to have been explained and disproved by the new disaster. No spy serving as a member of the Bulwark's crew could possibly have exploded her magazines. That erroneous report was doubtless caused by the general misapprehension as to how the German spy system has been operated. That signal were in some mysterious manner communicated to the commander of the German submarine squadron as to the whereabouts of the Audacious is no longer questioned. When that ill-fated battleship emerged from Lough Swilly for a morning's target practice a German submarine had been detached to intercept and destroy

Just how these spies operated is, of course, more conjecture. It is enough to know that England has been infested by secret agents and that in the two cases where British warships of the first class were off their guard the relaxing of vigilance resulted in their prompt destruction.

The officers of the Bulwark seemed fairly justified in believing themselves safely out of the danger zone. It was hardly thinkable that a hostile submarine would venture into a roadstead so near to London itself. But that the activity and efficiency of the enemy were underestimated is proved by the result. Quietly coaling while anchored in what was presumably the safest of anchorages, her crew smoking their after-breakfast pipes as the band played,

INFORMATION Is at Least as Important as Education, and the
So-Called "Ignorant Vote" Is the Most Valuable Vote
Copyright, 1914, by The Star Company.

"Dear Sirs: The solution of the woman's suffrage question can be summed up by passing a law that all persons, male or female, desiring to vote and having reached the voting age, shall pass an examination as to their education and intelligence; that those who can pass that examination shall be permitted to vote, others not.

M. SUNSHINE."

M. SUNSHINE.

Your plan to keep men and women away from the polls if they lack education would be a bad thing—almost as bad as the stupid and criminal plan which is constantly proposed at Washington to keep out of our country immigrants that lack education of a bookish kind.

Your suggestion, Mr. Sunshine, would keep Nancy Hanks from voting if she were alive today. Yet, if it were explained to you that she was the mother of Abraham Lincoln, you would probably be glad to have her vote, using her COMMON SENSE, even though it be true, as alleged, that she could neither read nor write.

What the country needs is honesty, earnestness, and especially that kind of common sense THAT REFUSES TO BE FOOLED BY FAIR PROMISE OR TO IGNORE BROKEN PLEDGES OF THE PAST.

The chimpanzee who can eat with a napkin around his neck is educated compared to the blue-nosed macaque, who can't learn anything.

The man whom Mr. Sunshine might consider educated would seem a pitiful ignoramus to Sir Oliver Lodge or to Michelson of the Chicago University or a thousand others.

Any woman who is self-respecting and takes care of her children, any man willing to work for his living, honest and a believer in our government, is a good citizen—AND ALL GOOD CITIZENS, MALE OR FEMALE, SHOULD VOTE.

A woman need not be "educated" in order to know that the streets are dirty, playgrounds neglected, willing workmen out of work, trust prices high and life painful.

We give people the vote in order that they may insist on efficient government, honest government, clean streets, trust regulation, prosperous times.

And the educated, on the whole, do not vote as consistently or as intelligently as the uneducated.

That is why it is preposterous and stupid to talk of an educational test for immigrants and equally preposterous to talk of an educational test for voters.

DON'T FORGET TO WATCH OUT FOR THE POWERS' CARTOONS IN THE SUNDAY AMERICAN

I HAVE received a letter from a man who writes as follows: "A holy marriage that should endure and does endure until the end."

"I have read with hearty concern a recent article giving your opinion of the inadvisability of man tempting Providence by marrying. I have heard no longer endorse, and I would be most interested in your views in the still more difficult position of the man who discovers such a mistake only after the church and the law have ratified the promise.

But what of the marriage with which God had nothing to do? Marriages that are the result of honest mistakes, or of the before-mentioned error of the betrothed man or woman who is tricked into a union with an utterly unworthy mate. What is holy about them? What good can come of forcing two people who hate each other, and who bring out all that is worst

Yet say: "Thousands of men have honestly thought of marriage as the way to happiness, and when they became engaged to marry women, but found themselves disillusioned long before their wedding day. Thousands of men are so out of love and disenchanted with their prospective wives that they would rather face the hangman than the preacher on the altar of matrimony."

What of the man who discovers after only a few months of marriage that what he mistook for in each other, to live together?

If it were a question of happiness, the man who has been disillusioned might be justified in saying to the man or woman who has made a terrible matrimonial mistake, "Stick to your bargain. Endure without whining the misery that you have innocently brought upon yourself." The effects, however, of a man or woman being so disappointed in matrimony are far beyond a question of individual bliss or woe.

love was but a poor imitation of what love of the right sort might mean, and that the woman to whom he had said "I love you" was inferior, not only to himself, but to all that he had imagined her to be, and all that the hope of marriage had inspired her to be. His selfish, ambitious and utterly incapable of being a true mate to a real man?

For His Own Mistake? How often have we seen the fire of genius put out in a man's soul by the nagging of his wife! How often have we seen a man who would do anything for his country, let it be him to die, put it in him to do nothing because that would have been a benefit to humanity, forced by an extravagant wife into becoming nothing but a drudge to supply her with money! How often have we seen a man with eldorado loss hope and ambition, and become cloid himself;—

of character be more truly helped by his breaking the tie, getting away from a degenerating influence, and by avoiding adding to the countless burden children who the world's burden children who are handicapped by being born of unfavorable parents and entirely unloving parents? Should such a woman be entitled to be a burden upon the man for all of his life, closing his every ambition, dulling his every joy, and preventing his fulfilling the real meaning of existence?"

The question is man asks in the middle of the age. Perhaps it is the middle of all ages, only now are we trying to find some rational and helpful answer to it, instead of sitting down before it meek and helpful submission as our forefathers have done.

Those who are opposed to di-

What would he do if he had made any other such blunder in life? He would stop short and try to rectify his mistake. He would stop his error and take a fresh start. This is hardly different in matrimony than anywhere else, but it seems to me to be the only just and honorable thing to do.

force answer this man's question in the negative. They say that marriage is an indissoluble contract, and that man who marries a woman, and she comes to him miserable as she is in it, no matter how much they drag each other down; no matter what a crime it is to bring children into the world under such conditions, it is a pity that such cases cannot be settled decently out of court without the public wailing and weeping of the man, but if he comes when we will marriage, such matters better than we do now, and when we will prevent such tragedies by reversing the order that now obtains for marriage and

For now alas! as it is for children to be reared in a home of strife, the marriage bond must not be broken.

Personally I cannot accept this view of the situation. I fully agree with those who say, "Whom God hath joined, let no man put asunder." As a matter of fact, those whom God hath joined, no man can put asunder. That is a
